Headline:
Mild, wet and windy today. Turning colder tomorrow.

Today:
A mild day in store with outbreaks of rain and drizzle, perhaps heavy at times. Occasional drier spells are possible, but it will remain mostly cloudy and windy, with gales along English Channel coasts. Mild for all parts. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Further periods of heavy rain are likely overnight with mild southwesterly winds replaced by much colder northwesterly winds later. Becoming drier with clear spells by dawn. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Thursday:
A cold, bright and blustery day with plenty of sunny spells, but also a few showers. Feeling colder than recent days, especially in the wind. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold and dry on Friday with largely sunny skies and winds steadily easing. Potential for a spell of rain and snow on Saturday, then drier again Sunday. Widespread frost overnight.
